of the eight National League teams, the Of the eight National League teams, the Chicagos enjoyed the Fourth most. Mornying and afternoon they beat the Pittaburgs by a 1 to 6 score and sailed gayly to the .700 mark. The double drubbing incurred by the Pirates and New York's victory over the Brooklyns put the Pittsburgs and champions in second place, share and share alike. There was too much rain for a morning game at the Polo Grounds. The Bostons won from the Philadelphias in the morning and were shut out by them in the afternoon. The Cardinals were overwhelmed by the Cin-cinnatis in the morning, but defeated them in the afternoon. The Brooklyns and Reds are tied for fifth place. The results:

NEW YOUR (N. L.), 3. IGOORLYN, 2.
One home run and one near home run had considerable bearing on the holiday clash if the Polo Grounds yesterday afternoon setween the New Yorks and Brooklyns. The lome run was made by Bowerman of the New Orks and won the game. The ball went not the left field bleachers. Had Tim Jorlan's feroclous smash into the right field deachers in the ninth inning been decided afe it would have put the Brooklyns one run head.

Seldom have twin lifts into the seats caused Seldom have twin lifts into the seats caused as much discussion. There was a man on base when Jordan hammered the ball on a line into the short sleeved mass back of right field. Emislic called the hit foul, and the Brooklyns rushed around him in vehement protest. The umpire was in a position to Judge where the ball struck, but his decision was hooted loudly. "Fair by five feet," declared those who vowed they had followed the course of the hall closely. "Foul by five feet," was asserted with equal emphasis by others. The Jordanites acted the same as if the hit had won the game. They shouldered him just after the game and carried him until he jumped down and skipped to the clubhouse.

the hit had won the game. They shouldered him just after the game and carried him until he jumped down and skipped to the clubhouse.

Both McGinnity and l'astorius pitched splendidly except in one inning, McGinnity being the better performer of the two. The waceptions were the second and seventh innings. The New Yorks bunched three hits on Pastorius, and the Brooklyns stacked up three in a row on McGinnity. Strang singled to left in the second, Jevlin beat out a hit to deep short and Gilbert sacrificed.

Bowerman shot a towering fly to left, and the ball in desending appeared to dron through the folds of the foul flag in the left field stand. It was close to the matter of inches as concerns the fair and foul question and the sort of hit to create pronounced differences of opinion. The Brooklyn sympathizers argued that there was nothing to it but foul, while the New York rooters said the lit was plainly fair. The main point was that the umpire said fair. Brooklyn players surrounded Emsle, pointed to where they said the ball fell and otherwise gesticulated, but soon returned to their places.

The game moved along briskly, was played without an error, but with no difficult chances. Lewis kicked on a called strike in the second inning, and was still at it when McGinnity twirled the next ball over the plate. "Strike two," said Emslie, and then strike three on the next pitched ball. The perturbed Lewis voiced his feelings again and was ordered off the field. His going necessitated a rearragement of the available material.

Three out of four times up Roger Bresnahan walked. He was caught sealing, and McCann followed with a double and was thrown out at third on Mertes's rap to Alperman's throw to Gilbert. In the next five inings the Brooklyns went out in one-two-three order, not making a hit. Two were out in the seventh-making nineteen consecutive and hitless batters-when Ritter singled to centre. Jordan doubled, and Alperman scored both men with a repeat double. Ritter walked with two out in the ninth, but Jordan, aft

Fourth of July Baseball Attendance. The attendances at major league games yes-terday seached a grand total of 140,721, and would have been more but for rainy weather in the morning. The attendances in the two leagues were practically even, as a morning game in New York would have brought out 5,000 or 5,000 persons. Pittsburg has the distinction of a bigger morning than afternoon crowd and the biggest total of any of the eight cities in which games were played. The figures follow

Nell Loses in Championship Fight After Twenty Fast Rounds. Los Angeles, July 4.—Abe Attell and Frankie Neil slugged and pummelled each other flercely for twenty rounds this after-noon in the pavilion of the Pacific Athletic Club, for the double incentive of a huge purse and the featherweight championship. Attell got the decision after a battle that went every step of the way at high speed. He certainly earned it on points. Neil was a mighty unpleasant sight when the fight was over. His nose was sore and mashed out of shape from the pounding the Attell lad gave it. Both eyes were darkened Attell lad gave it. Both eyes were darkened and his face was covered with bruises. Attell's face, while not showing the marks of battle so plainly was puffed and a little lumpy. Neither man was able to score even a knock down, the nearest thing to that being when Attell put Neil to the ropes in the twelfth and lambasted him so hard on the ribs that Neil all but fell out of the ring.

The final round was a whirlwind affair. Both men clinched and pounded at each other madly and blindly. They refused to break at the command of the referee and paid no attention to him. The entire house was on its feet the last three minutes, which was full of whirling hits and flying fists. It was a fit finish for a fast scrap.

TAR THE BEST SOLUTION OF THE DUST PROBLEM.

Extensive Use on French Roads Leads to Doubts as to Whether There Is Enough of the Composition to Supply the Demand-Autos Barred From Nantucket.

With the great increase in automobiling and the growing tendency toward touring. the dust problem looms large, even in tricts having improved highways. Crude petroleum and fluid tar are most generally used, and after ten years of experimenting the French road engineers have found tar the most satisfactory. Reports of French engineers show that roads rightly treated with the proper preparation of coal tar cost much less for maintenance and wear twice as long as untreated highways, partly because the tarred surface sheds water so easily. The dust problem is receiving considerable attention in France, and at its meeting in Paris last winter the league for the Suppression of last winter the league for the Suppression of Dust discussed the possibility of the tar supply of France being insufficient to meet the future demand. The first experiments with tar in this country were made at Montclair and Westfield, N. J. Late in 1903 and 1904. Sections of macadam roads were treated in accordance with French methods and the results demonstrated that coal tax componitions are demonstrated that coal tar compositions are an effectual and economical medium for laying the dust and preserving the road surface. The United States Department of Agriculture has conducted some experiments along these lines through its public roads department with satisfactory results. The experiments demonstrated that some kinds of tar are not suitable for use on roads, while others give excellent results.

A coording to the horse dealers of Nantucket theair of the island, renowned for its salubrity, has a peculiar effect on horses which are brought there from other places, says the lioston Transcript. They say that no matter how well broken to automobiles a horse may be on the mainiand as soon as he comes to Nantucket and enters upon the business of transporting summer visitors he at once becomes terrified at the presence of an automobile near him.

One horse, it is said, has become untrustat the presence of an automobile near him.

One horse, it is said, has become untrustworthy, and his owner in Nantucket does not dare to use him because he knows there is an automobile at the other end of the island, some seven miles away. This peculiar effect of the air on the horses was urged, among other things, as a reason why the rlighway Commission should not upset the regulation which has been adopted by the island Selectmen excluding automobiles from Nantucket. The Commissioners gave a hearing this week, and when the all important business of assisting the boat to dock had been attended to the hearing room was crowded with natives and visitors, and the Commissioners listened while the Nantucketers argued in support of the action of their Selectmen. They said their roads were too narrow for automobiles, and that motor vehicles would min the only good highway on the island, the State road. They argued also that one of the great attractions of the island is its quietness. Invalids come there to convalence and people bring their children, knowing that they will be safe. There was some difference of opinion, a few speakers arguing that automobiles have as much right in Nantucket as anywhere else. One speaker gave it as his opinion that "If Nantucket soil is so almighty sacred that an automobile can't run on it then the people themselves ought to decide the question, and I am in favor of submitting it to the people on the Australian ballot instead of deciding it by this packed caucus." For this treasonable utterance he was threatened with ejection by a constable. After hearing the arguments the commission decided to delay its decision all little. The board also gave a hearing on the new rules adopted at Cottage City, and agreed to a limit of live miles an hour, on regarding Nantucket at its meeting next week.

A Western horseman gives this advice to automobilists regarding the best course to pursue when they meet restless horses: When you are coming up on a horse and see that he is nervous, do not fiddle around in the road, but turn on all the power you have until you have passed him, providing you have plenty of room. The sooner it is all over with the better for the horse. By putting on speed you simply reduce the duration of the agony. Have you ever noticed a horse shying at an automobile standing still? Sometimes it is hard to get the horse to pass it, but if that automobile could, in a jiffy, be whisked by out of sight, the animal would soon regume its usual gait.

would soon regime its usual gait.

Women make better drivers of automobiles than men, according to a San Francisco man, who gives the following reasons for his belief: "When a woman once determines to run a machine she learns in half the time it usually takes a man to master the mysteries of the steering gear, brakes and levers, and as a rule she makes a better driver, for she gives her undivided attention to learning how, which men rarely do. With her quick intuition she seems to know instinctively when something is wrong with the machinery, and with a little explanation she learns how to repair simple breaks, such as frequently occur when one is travelling. In my opinion if women had the strength they would do more in racing machines than men do, for most of them really reckless, and yet they get out of places where men often no to pieces. This is because the men realize the dangers surrounding them and the women do not.

The straightaway races scheduled for Long Beach, L. I. yesterday had to be postponed owing to the condition of the course. Gen. John T. Cutting had arranged a programme of stock car events to be run off on the four mile stretch of beach between Long Beach and Cedarhurst, but there were so many guilles made in the beach by the storm that it was unsafe to race on. A number of well known women had entered one of the events in which they were to have driven their own cars, among whom were Mrs. Williard Curtiss, Mrs. Brennan Cutting, Mrs. Kurtz Wilson, Mrs. C. O. Mills, Mrs. B. Stephens, Mrs. Percival Debbeon, Mrs. Wallace Guilford and Mrs. A. E. Earle. Ernest Keeler, who is to drive a car in the American elimination trials for the Vanderbilt cup race, was to have driven a mile against time.

CHICAGO, July 4.—After an accident had put the Thomas flyer out of the race, Charles Birchwood, driving a Haynes car, took a long lead in the 100 mile automobile race this afternoon at the Hawthorne racetrack, establishing a new world's record for the distance. A rear tire on the Thomas car exploded and Good, the driver, ran the car off the track to avoid an accident. A crowd of 10,000 persons witnessed the races. Summaries:

CRAGIN'S NEW TITLE. Elizabeth Man Wins Tennis Championship of East Jersey.

William B. Cragin, Jr., of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, won the champion-ship in men's singles of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association yesterday in a tourna-ment on the courts of his home club. Cragin was in great form and defeated H. McK. Glazebrook of the same club, against whom he played in the final, by the straight set score of 6-4, 8-6, 6-3. It was by far the best tennis that Cragin has played in recent years. Coming as it did after his winning the club championship at Elizabeth, it showed that Cragin is in good form right now.
